SAVE ALL 40 PATIENTS IN HOSPITAL BLAZE

QUICK THINKING NURSES AVERT ANY PANIC SIGN

FIRE COMPLETELY DESTROYS
OLD SWEDISH HOSPITAL
IN MINNEAPOLIS

EVERY PATIENT OUT BEFORE
100 FIREMEN ANSWER THE GENERAL ALARM

Minneapolis, March 3.—(U.P.)—Quick thinking nurses averted a panic and carried 40 hysterical patients to safety today when fire destroyed the old Swedish hospital.

Using fire escapes and regular entrances, the nurses marched or carried every patient from the blazing building before 100 firemen arrived in answer to a general alarm. No one was injured.

Patients on the second floor discovered the fire in a paper chute and spread the warning with terrified screams. The white-faced nurses immediately gathered a force of orderlies for rescue work and sped up and down the corridors quieting the patients.

The orderlies carried the more seriously stricken patients out of the building on their mattresses and the nurses guided the others down the corridors to exits or to fire escape landings. Within half an hour the old hospital building was left to the flames.

Many of the patients were carried to the basement and through a tunnel to an adjoining building of the hospital. Clerks from the registration department checked each patient as he was carried to safety and the nurses kept up the search until all were accounted for.

Hundreds of spectators were attracted by the blaze and police struggled to control the crowd, which included relatives of some of the patients. Cause of the fire was unknown and the loss was not estimated immediately.

BYRD EXPEDITION TO ARRIVE IN DUNEDIN, N. Z., IN TWO WEEKS

Dunedin, N. Z., March 3.—(U.P.)—Wireless messages received here today said the members of the Byrd Antarctic expedition, returning from two seasons of exploration, were expected to arrive at Dunedin within two weeks.

Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd's expedition left their base at Little America Feb. 19, bound for home. Relayed wireless messages reported their slow progress through the ice pack which had been so heavy earlier that it threatened to prevent passage of ships bound to bring the party home.

The message received today, however, said the expedition was heading northward after having passed through the pack.

LITERARY DIGEST'S CURRENT PROHIBITION POLL DISCUSSED

Westerville, O., March 3.—(U.P.)—The nation's prohibitionists were urged not to participate in the Literary Digest's current poll on wet and dry sentiment in a statement issued today by Dr. Ernest Cherrington, director of publicity for the Anti-Saloon league and secretary of the World League Against Alcoholism.

"The poll is merely a gesture," Cherrington said. "Though the result is overwhelmingly wet, it will not sound out true dry sentiment in the nation as a whole. Notoriously wet states such as New York will poll a majority so tremendous that sentiment in the small states, which are as notoriously dry, will be smothered."

ALICE WHITE MAY WED AGAIN SOON

Hollywood, Calif., March 3.—(U.P.)—That Alice White, screen star, would be the wife of Sidney Bartlett, Los Angeles broker, when she returns from Chicago in the near future to start work on a new picture, was the prediction of friends in the movie colony today.

It was reported that the couple, who left Friday for the middlewest, planned to be married today or tomorrow in Chicago where Bartlett's parents reside.

They supposedly have been engaged for more than a year, a report which Miss White has both admitted and denied.

Bonifacio barricaded himself in a small adobe hut Saturday when he learned his mother planned to send him to a reform school.

Crazed by liquor the youth fought off the posse for more than 15 hours. Finally he was forced from his shelter and killed.

Augustine Abreu, a wedding guest, was wounded in the back by the rejected suitor. Soaris was taken to St. John's hospital after another guest had fractured his skull with the leg of a chair.

The shooting occurred at the home of Anthony Gomes, following Gomes' marriage.

The missing persons for whose safety grave fears were held as a storm swept the bay with rain were Edward Broman, Elmer McMullen, Louis and Gene Broman, Bruce Broman and Bruce Tilton.

The missing pleasure seekers were last heard from late yesterday afternoon when they put out from Hunters Point after taking five gallons of gasoline aboard. They expected to head for Pacific City where the 24 foot cabin cruiser is berthed.

Search was started last night when Mrs. Broman asked San Francisco harbor police and coast guardsmen to look for the missing launch.

SON AGAIN NAMED MEMBER
LEGISLATIVE COMMITTEE

The business session of the Minnesota Fur Breeders' Association held at the Chamber of Commerce on Saturday afternoon closed with the election of officers, that of the president and vice president and a number of the directors and legislative committee being re-elections, evidencing in a way that the members were pleased by the record made last year. The election follows:

President—Clement Thompson, Motley.
Vice President—R. E. Davis, Minneapolis.
Treasurer—Leon Thompson, Motley.
Secretary—Dr. F. S. Swale, Minneapolis.

Legislative committee—Former Senator Hilding Swanson, Brainerd; A. R. Burton, Staples; Clement Thompson, Motley.

Over 100 members and other visitors were present at the annual convention. Addresses of welcome were made by D. H. Fullerton, city attorney, and C. A. Ryan, president of the Chamber of Commerce and a response by Clement Thompson, president of the Fur Breeders' Association.

President Thompson's Address
In his address President Thompson said the organization had justified its existence if for no other purpose than the part played in exposing the unscrupulous dealer. Laws fostered by the association have made it impossible for unprincipled operators to ply their trade. Relentless warfare has been waged against the illegal operator.

The 1929 fur breeders' law, drafted largely by the legislative committee of the association, is an outstanding achievement. Substitutions were made in the case of some speakers who were unable to attend the convention on account of blocked roads. Attorney I. E. McElroy of Minneapolis spoke in place of L. S. Whitcomb on "Publicity, Favorable and Unfavorable."

The legislative committee's report was made by former Senator Hilding Swanson of Brainerd, and was a comprehensive account of work accomplished for the benefit of the society. The address of Hon. Robert B. Forrest, assistant commissioner of the game and fish department, was given extended mention in Saturday's Brainerd Dispatch.

Dr. F. S. Swale of Minneapolis spoke of sanitation and feeding. Especially interesting were talks of Geo. L. Ramsey and Leon Thompson, the former having a beaver farm near Pillager and the other near Motley.

Deputy Game Warden A. P. Cardie of Brainerd said he had lived in Brainerd (Continued on Page 3)

D. H. LAWRENCE, NOTED BRITISH NOVELIST, DIES

WAS SURROUNDED BY GENIUSES
FROM CONTINENTAL WORLD OF LITERATURE

HAD WISHED TO BE TAKEN TO
ARIZONA, EITHER TO DIE OR
RECUPERATE THERE

Vence, France, March 3.—(U.P.)—D. H. Lawrence, 44, noted British novelist and poet, died here of tuberculosis, surrounded by geniuses from the continental world of literature.

Announcement of his death was made today, although it occurred at 9 P. M. yesterday.

Lawrence had been critically ill for several weeks, and his wish that he might be taken to Arizona, either to die or to recuperate in "the only healthy atmosphere he ever found"—could not be granted because of his condition.

The eminent American sculptor, Jo Davidson, made his bust shortly before death.

Lawrence's latest work of note, "Lady Chatterley's Lover," privately printed in 1928, obtained wide circulation in America before it fell under the wrath of censorship in many states.

He was born at Nottingham, England, and educated at Nottingham University. He devoted his entire life to literary work, in the course of which he travelled extensively.

Among other works for which he became famed were: The White Peacock, Sons and Lovers, The Rainbow, Women in Love, Aaron's Rod, and Lost Girl, all published before 1923, and England, My England, The Ladybird, and Rawdon's Roof, in 1926.

In many essays he went in for deep psychological and mystical subjects, dealing especially with "fantasies of the unconscious."

HOPE TO RESTORE GRAIN MARKET TO NORMALCY

CONFIDENT AID OF FEDERAL
FARM BOARD WILL BE
FELT

MARKET EXPECTED TO BE
HALTED SOON

Chicago, March 3.—(U.P.)—Confidence that the federal farm board's decision to cease paying an arbitrary price for wheat would restore the grain market to normalcy prevailed as traders went to the pits for today's opening.

Experts agreed with Chairman Alexander Legge of the farm board that the change of policy would halt the chaotic tendency of the market manifested in last week's violent price bobbles. Legge announced that the government would take no further part in the grain market, barring an unexpected price plunge, after he had spent Saturday conferring here with Secretary of Agriculture Arthur M. Hyde, officers of the grain stabilization corporation and those of the Farmers' National Grain Corporation.

"The suspension of the arbitrary buying basis established last fall will relieve the panicky feeling and stabilize the entire grain industry," Legge said. He explained that the Farmers' National Grain Corporation would continue loaning to co-operatives of the present crop until July 1.

Buying of immense quantities at the fixed price for cash wheat of $1.18 a bushel here has flooded terminals with grain, Legge explained, and further purchases by the federal farm board through its stabilization corporation were deemed unlikely. Its emergency function, to halt a break in price that sent wheat to below $1 a bushel, had been accomplished, and Legge and his associates deemed the time for withdrawal had arrived.

Minneapolis, March 3.—Wheat prices dropped from 2 to 3 cents on the Minnesota board of trade today as a decline in buying met the federal farm board's withdrawal from future trading.

May delivery opened at $1.16 1/4 but tumbled to $1.13 3/4 in the first hour after numerous stop-loss orders were executed with the first fractional decline. July wheat sold at $1.13 1/4, compared with Saturday's close of $1.16 5/8.

Reports of weakness at Chicago and foreign markets slowed down trading.

WEEK END OFFENSIVE IN CHICAGO AGAINST GANGSTER HORDES

Chicago, March 3.—(U.P.)—Another week end offensive in the police war against gangland rounded up 184 suspects, bringing to more than 10,000 the number of persons arrested since the drive began.

Jails were packed with suspicious characters seized in gang dives, night clubs, soft drink parlors and hoodlum hangouts. Of the more than 800 taken to police stations, 265 were paraded before victims of holdups and attacks at a "show up."

Reds Frustrated at Los Angeles

The picture shows the latest scene of the "Reds" activities as they gathered about the plaza at Los Angeles, Cal. Hundreds of uniformed policemen and detectives frustrated the Communists' riot program.

$4,000,000 WATER FRONT FIRE AT NEW ORLEANS

New Orleans, March 3.—(U.P.)—A $4,000,000 waterfront fire killed one man and burned eight other persons here last night.

The blaze, which started from an explosion on the Charbonnet street wharf of the Anderson-Clayton company, quickly spread to the steamer Seantic, alongside, and resulted in her upper structure being burned away before it was extinguished.

The casualties were among members of the Seantic's crew and visitors to the vessel. Joe Ryan, a messboy, was burned to death.

MYSTERIOUS BOMBINGS LAY TOLL TO 5 LIVES

SHADOW OF DREAD LIES ACROSS
INDUSTRIAL CENTER OF MARION, IND.

MEMBERS OF MOULD MAKERS'
UNION SINGLED OUT BY ASSASSINS

Marion, Ind., March 3.—(U.P.)—The shadow of dread lay across this busy industrial center today and edged across the fertile farm country about it as another 24 hours passed with no solution of the mysterious series of bombings that has claimed five lives by bombings in recent months.

Members of the Mould Makers' union, to which the five men singled out by the unknown assassins belonged, announced plans to leave good jobs with the two local factories and abandoned their homes. The terror that has haunted them has been communicated to other workers and to citizens in general. Farmers who drive in to sell a load of grain or leave a basket of eggs at the market have listened to the gruesome details of how men were blown to bits as they stepped on automobile starters.

State Fire Marshal Alfred M. Hoston and Edward Osborne, chief of the state bureau of criminal identification, are working with Marion police and the Grant county sheriff. But they have reported clues led nowhere, questioning suspects who furnished unimpeachable alibis and working on theories that had to be abandoned because there was nothing to support them.

The fate of John Ashcroft, 35, an employe of the Koepen Mould Works, was typical of that that has befallen the mould workers. He got into his touring car several evenings ago and stepped on the starter.

There was a roar and a flash as a dynamite bomb exploded, hurling the victim into the air. His body was torn to pieces and the wreckage of the car was thrown about the street and against the walls of the county jail. The downtown district was rocked and hundreds of citizens were panic-stricken.

The terror has been accumulative. Charles Humes and William Dean were killed when a bomb wrecked the Marion labor temple on the night of Oct. 3. Fred Dickens, an executive of the Engravers' union, was injured in that explosion and died several weeks later at his home in Pittsburgh, Pa.

Andrew Legos was fatally injured on Oct. 28 when he stepped on the starter of his automobile, detonating a bomb. His wife, Mrs. Erma Legos was arrested and questioned. A murder charge was filed against her but she was later released.

Irony played a part in the Ashcroft tragedy. He had been in the habit of cranking his car. For some reason known only to himself, he used the starter on the occasion that signalized his death.

YOUNG SON OF FORMER DICTATOR FIGHTS DUEL

Pamplona, Spain, March 3.—(U.P.)—Miguel Primo De Rivera, hot-blooded son of the former dictator of Spain, fought a duel with swords against Artillery Commandant Antonio Rexach today, in which both men were slightly wounded. Both were unrepentant although their "honor was satisfied." De Rivera said he fought the duel to "defend the honor of my father, the former dictator."

137 FISHERMEN WITH 135 HORSES AFLOAT ON ICE

A. F. OF L. IS OPPOSED TO ANY COMMUNISM

STORIES HEARD REGARDING RE-
LIGIOUS PERSECUTION
IN RUSSIA

ORGANIZED LABOR CONTINUES
OPPOSITION TO U. S. RECOG-
NIZING THE SOVIET

Reports of religious persecutions in Russia have strengthened the determination of the American Federation of Labor to continue its historic opposition to communism "wherever it may show itself in America." William Green, president of the A. F. of L., declares in the following article written exclusively for the United Press.

By WILLIAM GREEN
President, American Federation of Labor
(Written for the United Press)

(Copyright, 1930, by the United Press) Atlanta, Ga., March 3.—The American Federation of Labor is deeply concerned over the reports regarding religious persecution in Russia. This is quite natural and logical, because the A. F. of L. is committed to the principle of religious tolerance and freedom of worship.

Every student of the Soviet form of government knows that there is a direct and interlocking relationship existing between the communist party, the 'Red Internationale' and the Soviet government.

Under the influence of the communist party, anti-religious organizations have developed and grown in Soviet Russia, and as a result they have become an integral part of the Soviet government.

The attacks upon religion and religious institutions being conducted by organized groups in Russia represent the method of the Soviet government of accomplishing its purposes without being directly connected with it. Out of the conflicting information which reached us regarding this policy of persecution, the men and women of labor are convinced that the Soviet government is responsible for the attacks upon religion, religious institutions, rabbis, priests and preachers.

For that reason, labor will be strengthened in its purpose and determination to oppose communism wherever it may show itself in America, and to continue our opposition to the recognition of the Soviet government by the government of the United States.

Moscow, March 3.—Violence and oppression by petty Russian officials in their over-zealous efforts to communize Soviet agriculture must stop, under orders of Josef Stalin, the most powerful figure in Soviet politics.

In a document published under the name of the general secretary of the communist party, excesses and physical violence as a means of persuading peasants to join Russia's plan for collectivization of farms are denounced and condemned.

The document points out that half of the entire peasantry of the Soviet republic already is collectivized, and declares Stalin as favoring persuasion and education rather than force in inducing the other 50 per cent to join the plan.

TRAGEDY ENDS LIFE OF A FARM BOY

Red Wing, Minn., March 3.—(U.P.)—Tragedy today had ended the life of a second of two farm boy companions with the death of George Giles, 12, who was crushed yesterday by a heavy barn door which was blown down in a windstorm.

George was skiing on a highway with Ronald Hubert, 11, a playmate, when Ronald was run down by an automobile and killed several weeks ago.

LATEST FILINGS MADE AT ST. PAUL

St. Paul, March 3.—(U.P.)—State Senator L. P. Johnson of Ivanhoe today filed for re-election, setting at rest reports that he would be a candidate for the republican nomination for governor.

Mike Riley of Foley filed as representative from the forty-fifth district and E. T. Ebbeson of Revere filed for the state senate from the fourteenth district.

Offers Reward for Recovery of the Body of Her Husband

St. Paul, March 3.—(U.P.)—Mrs. C. C. Weideman today offered a reward of $200 for the recovery of the body of her husband from the Mississippi river. Weideman, a prominent business man, is believed to have committed suicide by jumping from a high bridge over the river.

ARIZONA, EITHER TO DIE OR
RECUPERATE THERE

Vence, France, March 3.—(U.P.)—D. H. Lawrence, 44, noted British novelist and poet, died here of tuberculosis, surrounded by geniuses from the continental world of literature.

Announcement of his death was made today, although it occurred at 9 P. M. yesterday.

Lawrence had been critically ill for several weeks, and his wish that he might be taken to Arizona, either to die or to recuperate in "the only healthy atmosphere he ever found"—could not be granted because of his condition.

The eminent American sculptor, Jo Davidson, made his bust shortly before death.

Lawrence's latest work of note, "Lady Chatterley's Lover," privately printed in 1928, obtained wide circulation in America before it fell under the wrath of censorship in many states.

He was born at Nottingham, England, and educated at Nottingham University. He devoted his entire life to literary work, in the course of which he travelled extensively.

Among other works for which he became famed were: "The White Peacock, Sons and Lovers, The Rainbow, Women in Love, Aaron's Rod, and Lost Girl, all published before 1923, and England, My England, The Ladybird, and Rawdon's Roof, in 1926.

In many essays he went in for deep psychological and mystical subjects, dealing especially with "fantasies of the unconscious."

HOPE TO RESTORE GRAIN MARKET TO NORMALCY

CONFIDENT AID OF FEDERAL
FARM BOARD WILL BE
FELT

MARKET EXPECTED TO BE
HALTED SOON

Chicago, March 3.—(U.P.)—Confidence that the federal farm board's decision to cease paying an arbitrary price for wheat would restore the grain market to normalcy prevailed as traders went to the pits for today's opening.

Experts agreed with Chairman Alexander Legge of the farm board that the change of policy would halt the chaotic tendency of the market manifested in last week's violent price bobbles. Legge announced that the government would take no further part in the grain market, barring an unexpected price plunge, after he had spent Saturday conferring here with Secretary of Agriculture Arthur M. Hyde, officers of the grain stabilization corporation and those of the Farmers' National Grain Corporation.

"The suspension of the arbitrary buying basis established last fall will relieve the panicky feeling and stabilize the entire grain industry," Legge said. He explained that the Farmers' National Grain Corporation would continue loaning to co-operatives of the present crop until July 1.

Buying of immense quantities at the fixed price for cash wheat of $1.18 a bushel here has flooded terminals with grain, Legge explained, and further purchases by the federal farm board through its stabilization corporation were deemed unlikely. Its emergency function, to halt a break in price that sent wheat to below $1 a bushel, had been accomplished, and Legge and his associates deemed the time for withdrawal had arrived.

Minneapolis, March 3.—Wheat prices dropped from 2 to 3 cents on the Minnesota board of trade today as a decline in buying met the federal farm board's withdrawal from future trading.

The May delivery opened at $1.16 1/4 but tumbled to $1.13 3/4 in the first hour after numerous stop-loss orders were executed with the first fractional decline. July wheat sold at $1.13 1/4, compared with Saturday's close of $1.16 5/8.

Reports of weakness at Chicago and foreign markets slowed down trading.

WEEK END OFFENSIVE IN CHICAGO AGAINST GANGSTER HORDES

Chicago, March 3.—(U.P.)—Another week end offensive in the police war against gangland rounded up 184 suspects, bringing to more than 10,000 the number of persons arrested since the drive began.

Jails were packed with suspicious characters seized in gang dives, night clubs, soft drink parlors and hoodlum hangouts. Of more than 800 taken to police stations, 285 were paraded before victims of holdups and attacks at a "show up."

$4,000,000 WATER FRONT FIRE AT NEW ORLEANS

New Orleans, March 3.—(U.P.)—A $4,000,000 waterfront fire killed one man and burned eight other persons here last night.

The blaze, which started from an explosion on the Charbonnet street wharf of the Anderson-Clayton company, quickly spread to the steamer Scantic, alongside, and resulted in her upper structure being burned away before it was extinguished.

The casualties were among members of the Scantic's crew and visitors to the vessel. Joe Ryan, a messboy, was burned to death.

MYSTERIOUS BOMBINGS LAY TOLL TO 5 LIVES

SHADOW OF DREAD LIES ACROSS
INDUSTRIAL CENTER OF MARION, IND.

MEMBERS OF MOULD MAKERS'
UNION SINGLED OUT BY
ASSASSINS

Marion, Ind., March 3.—(U.P.)—The shadow of dread lay across this busy industrial center today and edged across the fertile farm country about it as another 24 hours passed with no solution of the mysterious series of bombings that has claimed five lives by bombings in recent months.

Members of the Mould Makers' union, to which the five men singled out by the unknown assassins belonged, announced plans to leave good jobs with the two local factories and abandoned their homes. The terror that has haunted them has been communicated to other workers and to citizens in general. Farmers who drive in to sell a load of grain or leave a basket of eggs at the market have listened to the gruesome details of how men were blown to bits as they stepped on automobile starters.

State Fire Marshal Alfred M. Hogston and Edward Osborne, chief of the state bureau of criminal identification, are working with Marion police and the Grant county sheriff. But they have reported clues led nowhere, questioning suspects who furnished unimpeachable alibis and working on theories that had to be abandoned because there was nothing to support them.

The fate of John Ashcroft, 35, an employee of the Koeppen Mould Works, was typical of that that has befallen the mould workers. He got into his touring car several evenings ago and stepped on the starter.

There was a roar and a flash as a dynamite bomb exploded, hurling the victim into the air. His body was torn to pieces and the wreckage of the car was thrown about the street and against the walls of the county jail. The downtown district was rocked and hundreds of citizens were panic stricken.

The terror has been accumulative. Charles Humes and William Dean were killed when a bomb wrecked the Marion labor temple on the night of Oct. 3. Fred Dickens, an executive of the Engravers' union, was injured in that explosion and died several weeks later at his home in Pittsburgh, Pa.

Andrew Legos was fatally injured on Oct. 28 when he stepped on the starter of his automobile, detonating a bomb. His wife, Mrs. Erma Legos was arrested and questioned. A murder charge was filed against her but she was later released.

Irony played a part in the Ashcroft tragedy. He had been in the habit of cranking his car. For some reason known only to himself, he used the starter on the occasion that signalized his death.

YOUNG SON OF FORMER DICTATOR FIGHTS DUEL

Pamplona, Spain, March 3.—(U.P.)—Miguel Primo De Rivera, hot-blooded son of the former dictator of Spain, fought a duel with swords against Artillery Commandant Antonio Rexach today, in which both men were slightly wounded. Both were unconcerned although their "honor was satisfied." De Rivera said he fought the duel to "defend the honor of my father, the former dictator."

137 FISHERMEN WITH 135 HORSES AFLOAT ON ICE

A. F. OF L. IS OPPOSED TO ANY COMMUNISM

STORIES HEARD REGARDING RE-
LIGIOUS PERSECUTION
IN RUSSIA

ORGANIZED LABOR CONTINUES
OPPOSITION TO U. S. RECOG-
NIZING THE SOVIET

Reports of religious persecutions in Russia have strengthened the determination of the American Federation of Labor to continue its historic opposition to communism "wherever it may show itself in America," William Green, president of the A. F. of L., declares in the following article written exclusively for the United Press.

By WILLIAM GREEN
President, American Federation of Labor
(Written for the United Press)
(Copyright, 1930, by the United Press)

Atlanta, Ga., March 3.—The American Federation of Labor is deeply concerned over the reports regarding religious persecution in Russia. This is quite natural and logical, because the A. F. of L. is committed to the principle of religious tolerance and freedom of worship.

Every student of the Soviet form of government knows that there is a direct and interlocking relationship existing between the communist party, the 'Red Internationale' and the Soviet government.

Under the influence of the communist party, anti-religious organizations have developed and grown in Soviet Russia, and as a result they have become an integral part of the Soviet government.

The attacks upon religion and religious institutions being conducted by organized groups in Russia represent the method of the Soviet government of accomplishing its purposes without being directly connected with it.

Out of the conflicting information which reached us regarding this policy of persecution, the men and women of labor are convinced that the Soviet government is responsible for the attacks upon religion, religious institutions, rabbis, priests and preachers.

For that reason, labor will be strengthened in its purpose and determination to oppose communism wherever it may show itself in America, and to continue our opposition to the recognition of the Soviet government by the government of the United States.

Moscow, March 3.—Violence and oppression by petty Russian officials in their over-zealous efforts to communize Soviet agriculture must stop, under orders of Josef Stalin, the most powerful figure in Soviet politics.

In a document published under the name of the general secretary of the communist party, excesses and physical violence as a means of persuading peasants to join Russia's plan for collectivization of farms are denounced and condemned.

The document points out that half of the entire peasantry of the Soviet republic already is collectivized, and declares Stalin as favoring persuasion and education rather than force in inducing the other 50 per cent to join the plan.

TRAGEDY ENDS LIFE OF A FARM BOY

George was skiing on a highway with Ronald Hubert, 11, a playmate, when Ronald was run down by an automobile and killed several weeks ago.

LATEST FILINGS MADE AT ST. PAUL

THE SONGS I'D LIKE TO SING
by Lawrence Hawthorne

I'd like to write of humble things—
The common joys and cares of every day.
I'd like to tell a tale that brings
A brighter smile, or drives a tear away.
I'd like to paint a little scene
Of good old-fashioned comradeship and fun,
Where life is wholesome and serene,
And restful sleep is found when day is done.

I'd like to sing the simple songs,
That children might forsake their play to hear.
I'd like to talk to weary throngs
And have them heartened by my words of cheer.
I'd like to voice the happiness
That only humble folks can truly know;
And search for language to express
The beauty of contentment's kindly glow.

I'd like to chant love's tender lays;
And laud the charm of Nature everywhere.
I'd like to sing of childhood days,
Of home, and of a mother's faithful care.
I'd like to touch the wistful chords
Of memory, and somehow play again
That gentle music which affords
Unending pleasure to the hearts of men.

I'd like to write of humble things—
The common joys and cares of every day.
I'd like to tell a tale that brings
A brighter smile, or drives a tear away.
I'd like to paint a little scene
Of good old-fashioned comradeship and fun,
Where life is wholesome and serene
And restful sleep is found when day is done.

I'd like to sing the simple songs,
That children might forsake their play to hear.
I'd like to talk to weary throngs
And have them heartened by my words of cheer.
I'd like to voice the happiness
That only humble folks can truly know;
And search for language to express
The beauty of contentment's kindly glow.

I'd like to chant love's tender lays;
And laud the charm of Nature everywhere.
I'd like to sing of childhood days,
Of home, and of a mother's faithful care.
I'd like to touch the wistful chords
Of memory, and somehow play again
That gentle music which affords
Unending pleasure to the hearts of men.

PRINCE OF WALES CONTRACTS FEVER IN AFRICAN JUNGLE

UNDER CARE OF PHYSICIANS AT GOVERNMENT HOUSE AT NAIROBI, AFRICA

"SUBTERTIAN" VARIETY CHARACTERIZED BY HIGH FEVERS AND EXTREME CHILLS

Nairobi, Kenya Colony, Africa, March 3.—(U.P.)—The Prince of Wales has contracted malarial fever in the African jungle, and is under the care of physicians at the government house here.

The attack is described as of the "subtertian" variety, which runs a cycle of high fevers and extreme chills over a three-day period. No immediate alarm is felt for the royal patient, however, and his rapid recovery is looked for.

The following bulletin was issued yesterday, after the prince had been brought here from his hunting base at Voi, in his special train:

"The Prince of Wales is suffering an attack of subtertian malaria and returned to Nairobi in consequence. His fever is following a normal course, and it is anticipated he will be quite well in a few days."

The hurried return to Nairobi, which was accomplished with some secrecy, came just after Captain Campbell Black, "beating up" game for the prince's cameras and guns, had sighted a great herd of buffalo. The prince made a long hike, reached the herd, and took many photographs before he was forced to end the day's activities.

London, March 3.—King George and Queen Mary were informed immediately of the illness of the Prince of Wales, when news of his fever reached London. This is the first time the prince has ever been seriously ill during any of his world wide travels.

Considerable alarm was felt when the first messages from Nairobi arrived, since they did not describe adequately his condition nor the seriousness of the disease.

Later reports, however, confirming physicians' diagnosis of the disease as a milder form of malaria relieved public anxiety.

Nairobi, Kenya Colony, March 3.—The Prince of Wales, taken ill with malaria on his African hunting trip, made rapid progress towards complete recovery today. The following official bulletin was issued:

"The condition of the Prince of Wales continued to improve. No complications have occurred and complete recovery is expected at an early date."

Do Wet Nations Laugh at Dry America?

THOMAS N. CARVER, professor of Economics, Harvard University, writing in a recent issue of the Christian Science Monitor, sums up very clearly a few economic facts regarding the wet and dry issue in the United States by saying: "Do wet nations laugh at dry America? Maybe, economists say, but not at high wages, cars and radios."

"I read a short time ago," says Prof. Carver, "that a prominent wet was afraid that this country would become the laughing stock of the rest of the world. Well, there are some things about us at which other countries are not disposed to laugh. They do not laugh at the wages which our industries manage to pay. They do not laugh at the standard of living of our working people manage some way to afford. They do not laugh at the growth electric household appliances, and baby carriages which our people manage some way to afford. They do not laugh at the growth of savings bank deposits, of life insurance, and of building and loan associations."

"I do not notice any strong tendency on the part of foreign-born workers to shun this country. Our immigration laws restrict the numbers who can come. Were it not for this restriction, we should have millions of immigrants seeking our shores. Perhaps they want to come merely because they find so much amusement. I should not blame them for laughing when they get here. They will have reason enough for laughing when they get to such an amusing country."

"They must find it amusing to get higher wages than they ever knew before. They must find it amusing to ride in automobiles of their own, to have money in the savings bank, to have their children in free public schools, and even to go to movies instead of the saloons in the evening."

"The wives of our workers, as well as those of foreign birth, must find it amusing to have their husbands come home sober and not to have to run the gamut of a dozen saloons on their way back from work. They must find it amusing to have their husbands bring the wages home instead of spending them for drink. They must find it amusing to tune in on the radio, to visit the movies, to operate electric washing machines, to help their children with their school work, to buy food, shoes and clothing with their wages instead of drink."

"Yes, this is a very amusing country!"

Third Party Activities

A COMPLETE third party state ticket for the June primary election will be indorsed at a convention of the Minnesota Farmer-Labor association at St. Paul on March 27 and 28, party leaders have announced.

Perhaps the most important convention discussion is expected to center about the candidacy of Floyd B. Olson, county attorney of Hennepin county. Olson will be asked by the association to announce whether he will be a candidate for United States senator or governor.

Each county will send one delegate at large and one additional delegate for every 1,000 votes cast for the Farmer-Labor candidate for governor in 1928. The general sentiment now prevailing appears to be that Olson will be indorsed for either senator or governor. The indorsement is not necessarily nomination, for at the June primary, any member of the Farmer-Labor party may file for any office.

Railway Veterans Retiring

IN publicity sent out by the Northern Pacific railway company, mention is made of the retirement of a Brainerd veteran.

It is stated that among the veterans of the Northern Pacific who retired on the honor rolls of the company on Friday were David Payn, engineer of the Tacoma division with 35 years and seven months of continuous service; William J. Cleland, passenger conductor on the Dakota division, service 40 years and 10 months; Rodney S. Reynolds, conductor on the Fargo division, service 43 years and 10 months, and Andrew Johnson, frog maker, mechanical department, Brainerd, service 37 years and seven months.

All these men have given the company wonderful service, have been loyal and faithful and merit the honors and attention paid them. In these present days where men shift about and change jobs so frequently, such lengthy and good service is worthy of notice.

Engines Nearly Half a Block Long

THE Northern Pacific railway company will soon have a dozen locomotives nearly half a block long in service. Imagine the kind of a fireman required if the old days of stoking or firing prevailed. He would qualify for shot put and make any Olympic team.

The first of the 11 duplicates of the Yellowstone type locomotive—the largest steam locomotive in the world—will be delivered to the Northern Pacific early in April, according to operating officials of the railroad.

The first of the 12 locomotives has been in service for nearly a year on the section between Glendive, Mont., and Mandan, N. D. It is 125 feet long. It has proved entirely satisfactory and an order was placed for the 11 duplicates. These will be put in service immediately upon receipt.

Age Cuts No Figure

GIVEN the right kind of constitution, ambition a-plenty, and age has nothing to do with a person's course in life.

At St. Charles, Minn., Municipal Judge Salmon W. Gleason, 97, has expressed confidence that he will be re-elected to another four-year term in the municipal election to be held there tomorrow.

The judge will be just 101 years old at the end of his next term, when he expects to be a candidate for another four years. He has held office for 31 years. His voice is full and powerful and his sense of hearing is keen. He has been a resident of Minnesota for 75 years and is believed to be the oldest active judge in the United States.

At the annual meeting of the Little Falls Cooperative Creamery association held at Little Falls this evening, A. J. McGuire, general manager of the Land O' Lakes Creameries, Inc., will be the principal speaker.

WE have seen a new term dawning in advertising, the designation of "adverticians" for advertisers.

Big kernels in small shells

In addition to the advertisements of the big department stores, of the grocery and hardware stores, of the millinery, clothing and shoe stores, there is another kind of advertising that is being read more and more by readers of this newspaper. That kind of advertising is the Classified Columns.

A man or woman wants a job. They read the "Help Wanted" columns and probably insert an advertisement of their own under "Positions Wanted." Employer and job seeker soon get together to the benefit of both. A man may want an automobile—possibly he cannot afford a new car, so he looks in the "For Sale" columns and finds just the car at the price he can afford to pay. Some one has lost a pocketbook, valuable papers or even a pet dog. The "Lost and Found" columns soon bring loser and finder together.

The Classified Columns are so arranged that any one can readily find what he seeks quickly—business news, machinery and tools, household goods, horses, dogs, cats, canaries, etc. They enable you to locate what you are looking for in short order. So in reading advertising do not overlook the classified columns—the individual advertisements do not take up much room, but like the meaty nut they may contain a big kernel in a small shell—just for you.

Read the advertisements for your own good . . . classified columns as well as

Big kernels in small shells

In addition to the advertisements of the big department stores, of the grocery and hardware stores, of the millinery, clothing and shoe stores, there is another kind of advertising that is being read more and more by readers of this newspaper. That kind of advertising is the Classified Columns.

A man or woman wants a job. They read the "Help Wanted" columns and probably insert an advertisement of their own under "Positions Wanted." Employer and job seeker soon get together to the benefit of both. A man may want an automobile—possibly he cannot afford a new car, so he looks in the "For Sale" columns and finds just the car at the price he can afford to pay. Some one has lost a pocketbook, valuable papers or even a pet dog. The "Lost and Found" columns soon bring loser and finder together.

The Classified Columns are so arranged that any one can readily find what he seeks quickly—business news, machinery and tools, household goods, horses, dogs, cats, canaries, etc. They enable you to locate what you are looking for in short order. So in reading advertising do not overlook the classified columns—the individual advertisements do not take up much room, but like the meaty nut they may contain a big kernel in a small shell—just for you.

RUTH TO JOIN NEW YORK YANKEES AT SPRING PRACTICE

TO BE IN RIGHT FIELD AS REGULAR SEASON OPENS

WITH ALL HIS SALARY TROUBLES FORGIVEN AND FORTGOTTEN

CONFIDENT ALL 1930 CONTRACT DIFFICULTIES WILL BE STRAIGHTENED OUT

By FRANK GETTY
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
St. Petersburg, Fla., March 3.—Babe Ruth will join the New York Yankees at the opening of spring practice today and will be in right field when the regular season opens with all his salary troubles forgiven and forgotten.

While he still maintains his stand as the most prominent holdout of many baseball seasons, the home run king told the United Press he was confident all the difficulties concerning his 1930 contract would be straightened out long before April 16.

"I like the game too much to leave it," the Babe said. "It's a matter of business for me to get what I think I am worth to the Yankees, but I've given my best to the games and to my present ball club and I feel sure I will be with them when the season starts."

Looking fit from his life in the open, during which he has devoted most of his time to golf and swimming, Ruth said he would report to his new chief, Bob Shawkey, and take part in the regular training practice.

"It will be good to get a uniform on again," he declared with genuine enthusiasm. "After all there's no game like baseball. I have been part of it for so long that I'm not going to consider quitting now, while I've still got a lot of it in my system."

In discussing his salary and his insistence upon $85,000 a year, the famous slugger gave no indication that he would accept a compromise proposition, beyond saying that "some people seem to think a lot more about money than I do."

Ruth said he had no idea when he would meet Colonel Ruppert for a final show-down on his new contract.

"The next move is strictly up to Barrow and Ruppert," he pointed out. "They sent me a contract which did not call for the money I am asking, and I've sent it back. It's up to them to take the next step. I've always found Jake to be fair, and I'm sure he will be this time."

The Babe expressed enthusiasm over the fact that Bob Shawkey, a former Yankee pitcher, would manage the club this year. He said nothing of his own ambitions to pilot the Yankees, but declared himself heartily in favor of the selection of Bob the Gob as successor to the late Miller Huggins.

"There was a great little guy," said Ruth, referring to Huggins. "Most of the credit for our success when we were knocking them over from 1921 to 1928 belongs to Huggins. I think Shawkey learned a lot from Hug and should make a good manager. He can have my best, if we come to terms."

Ruth admitted that his club's prospects were not as bright this season as in former years but said he was confident that the Yankees could come through creditably with every one pulling for Shawkey.

"We can beat those guys," the Babe declared, referring to the Athletics, who are strong favorites to repeat their pennant triumph of 1929. "We always could lick them ourselves, and I think a lot of other clubs will stop them this year and help us get back the pennant."

His legs, which have caused him trouble in the past, are holding up this winter, the home run king declared.

"I've been walking around golf discs all winter, covering more ground than I ever have to in the out-field or on bases," and I feel better than I have for a long time," he said.

"There won't be any trouble about as the Camels were not represented."

my being ready. It's just a little matter of business which has to be settled first.

"As for those exhibition games which the Yankees want me to play, that's still a sore spot. They make a lot of money from those games using me as the attraction, and some of those games, on poor fields, take a lot more out of me than a regular league affair."

EXPECT TO PIT FIELDS AGAINST JIM McLARNIN

WELTERWEIGHT TITLE HOLDER NOW HAS LOGICAL CHAMPIONSHIP OPPONENT

McLARNIN BEAT SAMMY MANDALL IN 10 ROUNDS SATURDAY NIGHT

By BERT DEMBY
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Chicago, March 3.—(UP)—Now that Jackie Fields, welterweight titleholder, has a logical championship opponent

McLarnin, the Vancouver Irishman, is willing to meet Jimmy McLarnin, the Vancouver Irishman.

McLarnin proved himself the outstanding welterweight contender when he beat Sammy Mandell, the lightweight champion, in ten rounds Saturday night. Before that fight Mandell and McLarnin were considered the two men who have a chance to beat Fields.

Jimmy won the battle by outpunching the lightweight champion. Conceding some six or seven pounds in weight, Mandell put up a great fight but lost by a slim margin. Mandell took one of Jimmy's punches on the jaw as the second round closed and fought on instinct than for three rounds. He was good enough on instinct to knock down McLarnin in the fifth round and despite the decision he didn't lose any rounds after that.

In the ninth and tenth his finish reminded the fans of those attributed to "Snapper" Garrison.

Sammy won the ninth round by his boxing ability. But in the tenth, after apparently having been informed by his second and manager that his best chance lay in punching he slugged with McLarnin—something entirely foreign to him—and surprised the fans by winning the round.

Again Spit is a horrid word, but it is worse on the end of your cigar

... the war against spitting is a crusade of decency . . . join it. Smoke CERTIFIED CREMO!

The strong arm of the law halts the spitter whose vile and vicious habit menaces his fellow citizens. But for every spitter caught hundreds escape . . . hundreds who still roll cigars with dirty fingers and spit on the ends! In fact, more than half of all cigars made in this country are made by hand, and therefore subject to the risk of spit!

Certified Cremo protects you against this abomination! Every tobacco leaf entering the clean, sunny Certified Cremo factories is scientifically treated by methods recommended by the United States Department of Agriculture. And its purity is safeguarded along every step of the way by amazing inventions that foil, wrap and tip the cigars without the possibility of spit!

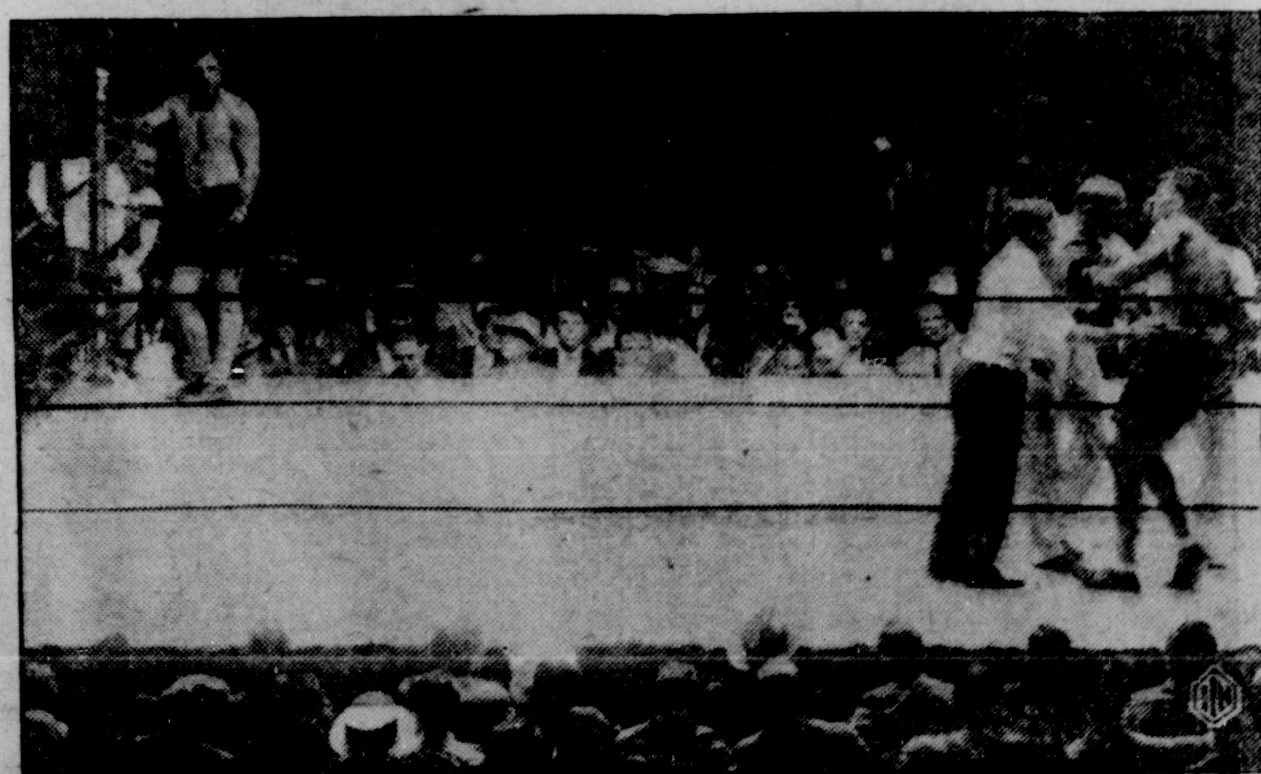

Try a Certified Cremo—see how wonderfully good it is! Made of the choicest, tenderest leaves that the crop affords, we claim Certified Cremo's quality is tastier than that of any other cigar. Don't let its 5c price stand in your way. Your physician has in mind a cigar like Certified Cremo when he recommends a mild smoke in place of heavy brands.

Crush-proof . . . immaculate . . . foil-wrapped . . . Certified Cremo is the kind of cigar the late Vice-President Marshall undoubtedly was thinking of when he said, "What this country needs is a good 5c cigar!"

Must Be Game to the Core!

By HARDIN BURNLEY

A PHYSICIAN who specializes in the medical treatment of hockey players, recently asserted that six-day bike racing was, and is, the most grueling of all sports—the one that demands the very ultimate in gameness to carry on with the handicaps of painful injuries and sore fatigue.

Of course, Reggie McNamara—greatest of all the six-day vets—immediately comes to mind whenever one thinks of extraordinary gameness and ability in any line of sports. There is a man of colossal courage and truly marvelous stamina.

In the course of his long career, McNamara probably has sustained more injuries than any other athlete in the tide of time. Fortunately none of these hurts has crippled permanently this most durable of all competitors. Reggie has suffered more than thirty bone breaks, forty dislocations, eighty cuts that required stitching, and countless bruises during two decades of active campaigning.

The scar-seamed, wrinkle-browed "Mac" has pedaled for hours at a stretch, time and again, when he ached all over and not infrequently had broken bones practically unattended. Scores of other six-day stars have borne similar sufferings but none in the abundance, and for the lengthy time, Reggie has. History already rates him as "the gamest of the game" in his torturous field of sport.

Hockey has always been a rough game, as well as the fastest in which scrimmages occur. Under the new rules, it is rougher than ever with casualties that keep team doctors busier than goalies. "Ching" Johnson of the New York Rangers is still convalescing from a jaw broken when he collided with "Dit" Clapper of the Boston Bruins several weeks ago. For almost a month "Ching" had to be fed with liquid food through a tube and he could but whisper briefly through clenched teeth.

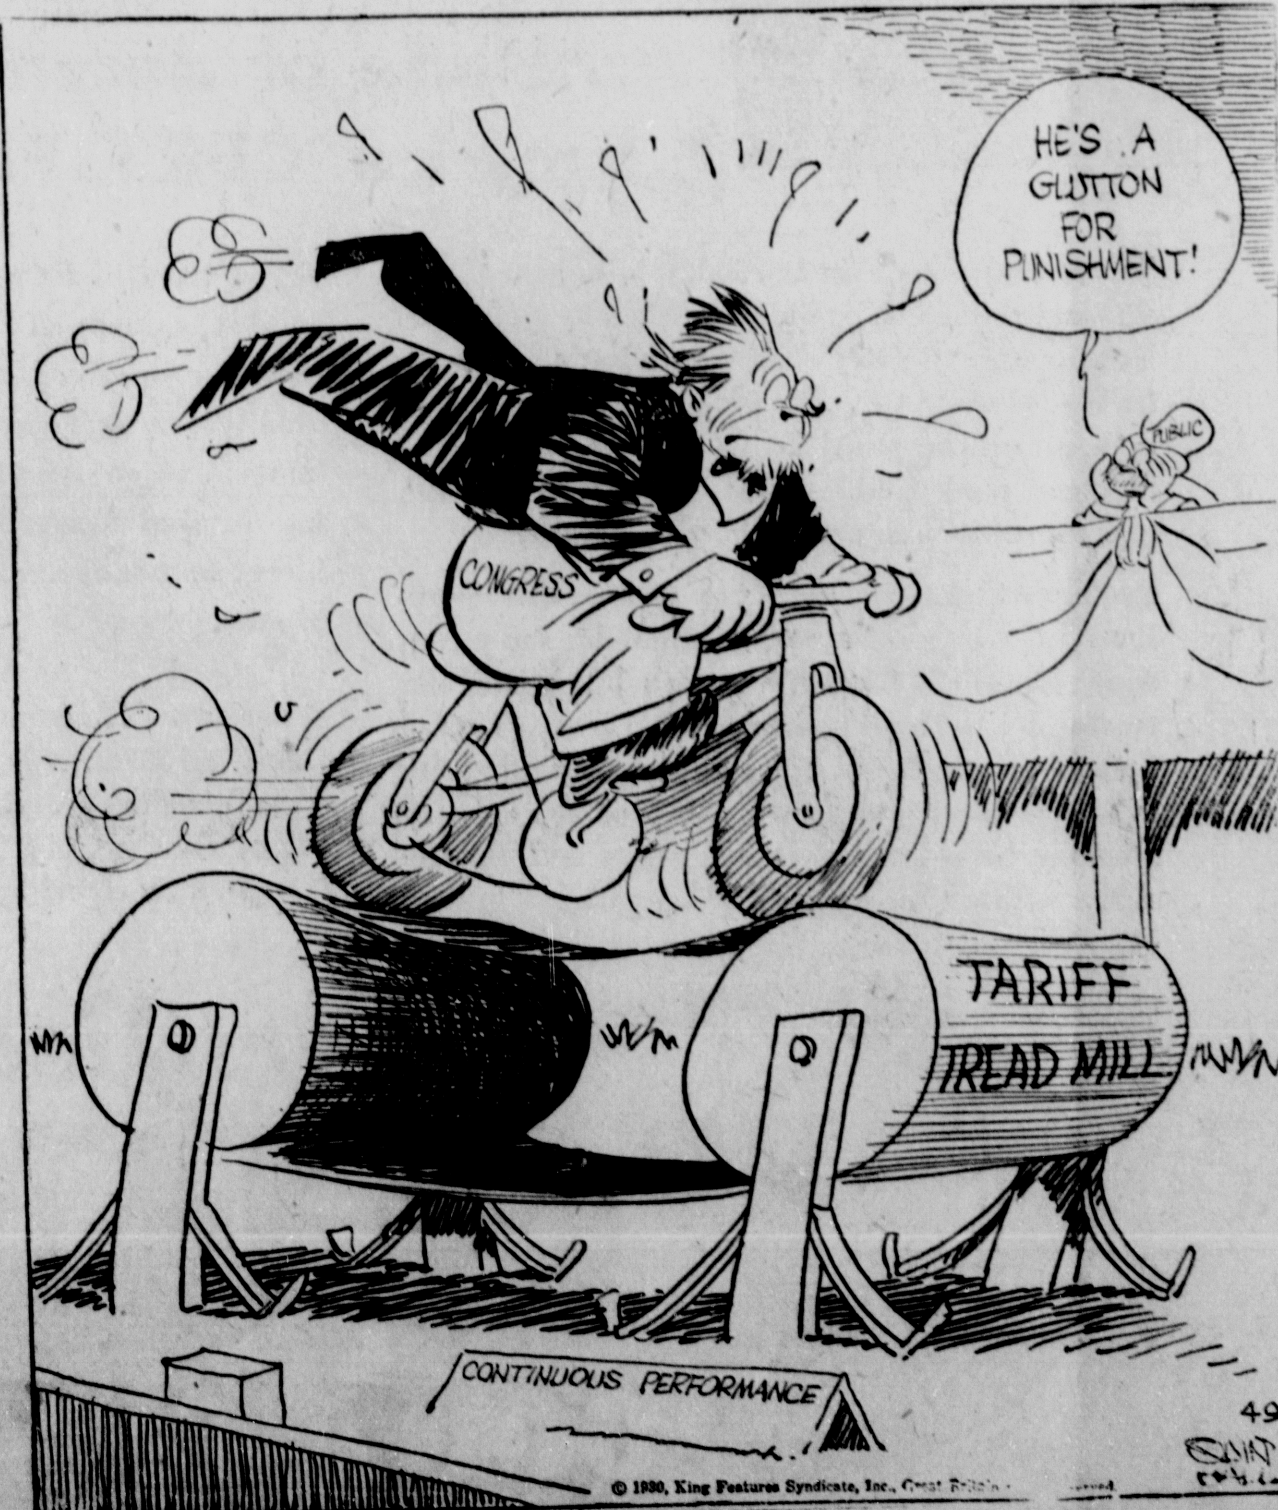

Will this pain-racked puck-shooter—who resumed hockey stardom as a lively sequel to heroic World War service—quit the game? From a hospital cot, his hissed denial of such an idea almost threw his injured jaw out of place!

Wallops like "Ching" Johnson took may incapacitate physically, but they do not cripple the flaming spirits of the truly game in hockey or any other sport.

Six-day biking may be the most punishing sport in the opinion of a hockey team physician, but what about college rowing?

Eight huskies in a shell, trained for months to row just four miles in a little more than 20 minutes. Sounds simple, but—to do that bit in varsity fashion leaves the average giant youth so limp that he has hardly the strength to breathe after the finish. Yes, a four-mile, eight-oar race is the most grueling and grilling of all sports events.

TRIPLETS BORN TO MURPHY FAMILY

Proud Parents, Mr. and Mrs. D. F. Murphy, 801 Fir Street, Are to be Congratulated

MOTHER DOING NICELY

First Triplets to be Born at St. Joseph's Hospital; All Boys

Today was the outstanding red letter day in the history of the Murphys. For to Mr. and Mrs. Donald F. Murphy, 801 Fir street, triplets were born at the St. Joseph's hospital.

The first child was born at 12:30 a. m., the second at 1 a. m., and the third at 1:30 a. m. All were boys and averaged four and one half pounds. The mother is doing nicely.

The great happiness felt by the proud parents was dimmed by the death of one of the children.

Mr. Murphy, the father, is a salesman for Stone, Ordean and Wells Co. of Duluth. The additions to the family brought happiness to the four other members of the Murphy household, Charlotte, 7, Donald Jr., 6, Eleanor, 3, and Thomas 21 months.

Dr. R. A. Beise also extended his congratulations to the family.

"This is the first time in my experience that I had the pleasure to officiate at the birth of triplets," Dr. Beise said.

The triplets were the first to be born at the St. Joseph's hospital, officials there reported.

Friends of the parents today offered name suggestions. One was of the mind that the children should be named Stone, Ordean and Wells after the firm the father is employed for.

The United Commercial Travellers were among those to send flowers to the parents.

Gay Wool Stockings Are Smart for Sports Wear

The question of what type hose to wear with the longer skirt is considered an important one, and the usual feeling is that the long lines should not be broken by a sharp contrast in hosiery, says a fashion writer in the Kansas City Star. Smart shops report interest in novelty silk and wool and silk and lisle hose for winter, these being especially well liked to complete a woolen costume, even one consisting of a light weight woolen frock.

For severe winter the gay wool sock is staunchly advocated as an appropriate accessory to the sports costume. Those planning a wardrobe for southern wear manifest interest in complexion tints, bordering of course on suntan tones since it is reasonably certain that the sun cult will continue. Rumors of a tendency to economize in stockings now that long skirts make them a less conspicuous feature detail of the costume, are rife. The demand continues, however, for sheer silks or for the aforesaid novelties which, by no means, represent a saving in the initial cost at least.

From Paris also comes the report that higher instep effects are conspicuous among the newer footwear offerings. Satin finished crepe is offered in a wide variety of lovely colors. Most showings include models made of contrasting kids, lizard being still in high favor.

The preference for related shoes and handbags continues. For southern wear fabrics are being cleverly introduced alone or with kid. Linen and crepe de chine, moire and brocade are among the best liked fabrics while stitching makes an unusual and often attractive decorative detail.

The formal town season finds the evening ensemble, with jacket of slightly longer coat, very much in the ascendency. Such costumes are lavishly trimmed with flustering fur and are fashioned of transparent velvet, panne, metal cloth or some of the heavier silks, such as faille or moire. There is a strong preference shown for the coarse fish net gown, this being especially well liked in black, a type of frock which, when boasting long sleeves, is termed the Sunday night frock.

Takes Much Water to Supply World's Cities

Have you any idea how much water the average city dweller uses daily? Take London, with its gigantic population. Here the authorities have to supply an area of 558 square miles, and give the 7,000,000 people the water they need. Would you have imagined that each of these demands no less than 36 gallons every day? Yes, that is only the average supply per head per day. In the dry, hot weather the amount required for each person becomes 40 gallons, or more than a barrel of water per day for each man, woman, and child. London is not the thirstiest town. Scotland consumes more water than England. In Glasgow and Edinburgh, for instance, the average consumption per head is not 36, but 37 gallons; and to Helensburgh, in Dumbartonshire, belongs the distinction of being the most thirsty town in the whole of the British Isles. Here they take 81.7 gallons per head. One reason given for Scotland's large consumption is that the water supply is much better than in England.

REPRESENTATIVES OF 3 RAILWAYS TO MEET SOON

GREAT NORTHERN, NORTHERN PACIFIC AND BURLINGTON IN CONFERENCE

TO DISCUSS I. C. C. DECISION TO SEVER BURLINGTON FROM NORTHERNS

New York, March 3.—(U.P.)—Representatives of the Great Northern, the Northern Pacific and the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy railroads are expected to meet this week to discuss the interstate commerce commission's decision to sever the Burlington from the Northern, in event that consolidation of the Northern into the Great Northern Pacific is consummated.

No date has been set and as no regular meetings of either of these roads is scheduled, the exact date of the meeting is unknown. The Northern is unwilling to part with the Burlington unless some arrangement for their entry into Chicago is made.

As the matter stands now the commission has set up Minneapolis and St. Paul as the eastern terminal of the Northern under its consolidation plan and the Burlington is cast in an entirely different system, linked with the Missouri-Kansas-Texas and a number of shorter roads.

Canyon Worthily Ranks as Marvel of Nature

To understand the immensity of the Grand canyon, it is necessary to know something of the Colorado river, which, incidentally, must be included among the great rivers of North America. It is formed in southern Utah by the confluence of the Green and the Grand rivers. It enters Arizona at the northwestern corner and flows southward to the Gulf of California. It drains an area of 300,000 square miles. Only at three points is it crossed by a railroad.

The Spaniards were the first white men to view the great wonder of nature. Spanish explorers first reported seeing it as early as 1539 and in 1775 a Spanish priest found a crossing that still bears his name. The first man to make anything like a complete survey of the river and the canyon through which it flows, was Maj. John Wesley Powell, a geologist and a school teacher, a one-armed veteran of the Civil war. With a crew of men and boats, he traversed the river from its source to its mouth in 1893.

The Grand canyon has long been a haven for geologists. It furnishes them with an ideal setting to study the earth's strata. And it is no less a haven for tourists.

OAK IS WALL ST. TO OLD RESIDENT

John Olson Engan Calls It That Because It's Best Street in Town, He Says

N. P. EMPLOYEE 41 YEARS

Lived in Same Home 32 Years; Is Strong Booster for Welfare of Brainerd

Oak street is Wall street to John Olson Engan, 1115 Oak street, because, he says, it is the best street in town. And to substantiate his statement he continues to say that he has lived at his home on Oak street for the past 32 years, has no desire to move elsewhere and is thoroughly contented with his lot.

Mr. Engan is 77 years old. He went by the name of G. A. Olson while employed at the Northern Pacific shops here as blacksmith for 41 years ago. That name was given him at the time he started the employ of the railway by a timekeeper who had to distinguish him from another man who went by the name of John Olson. The G. A. Olson stuck until his retirement in March six years ago.

Born in Norway which he says is a darned good place to be born in but not the place to live in as the good U. S. A. is. Mr. Engan came to North America 50 years ago. He lived in Canada for a while then moved to Michigan and came to Brainerd 47 years ago.

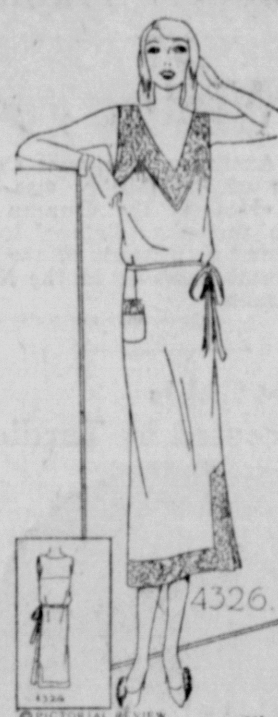

Thirty-six years ago a splinter of steel blinded his right eye while working. He did not complain even when last year he went blind in his other eye. He went to the N. P. B. A. hospital at St. Paul and there through an efficient operation and the aid of glasses he recovered the sight of his left eye.

"Yes, Brainerd is a mighty good place to live in," said Mr. Engan today as he surveyed the beautiful weather outside, "you know, winters are not as bad now as they were years ago."

The old resident said that when he first lived in southeast there were but six houses there. He has seen that section as well as entire Brainerd progress through the years and has rejoiced over it.

Mr. Engan is feeling well and very much happy to be alive. He has his own interests in life and particularly he likes the surrounding territory with its many lakes. He is a staunch supporter of the city and looks forward to the future brightly.

"Mr. Chairman, I Move You." All Wrong, Mrs. Roe Says; It Might be Physically Impossible

Make each P. T. A. member feel at home at all meetings, give that member something to do thus encouraging him or her to work for the interest of the association and by all means show them they are needed, Mrs. C. E. Roe of the National Parent Teacher Association told an assemblage of more than 100 leaders in P. T. A. work in the county Saturday at the new high school.

Mrs. Roe also set many of the representative right as to many parliamentary rules in connection with the holding of meetings.

"One grave fault common among members is their expression of offering motions. The mover will rise and say 'Mr. Chairman I move you that we.' Now when you analyze that you know that it is not right that it might even be a physical impossibility. Suppose the chairman weighed over 200 pounds. ## TRIPLETS BORN TO MURPHY FAMILY

Proud Parents, Mr. and Mrs. D. F. Murphy, 801 Fir Street, Are to be Congratulated.

MOTHER DOING NICELY

First Triplets to be Born at St. Joseph's Hospital; All Boys

Today was the outstanding red letter day in the history of the Murphys. For to Mr. and Mrs. Donald F. Murphy, 801 Fir street, triplets were born at the St. Joseph's hospital.

The first child was born at 12:30 a. m., the second at 1 a. m., and the third at 1:30 a. m. All were boys and averaged four and one half pounds. The mother is doing nicely.

The great happiness felt by the proud parents was dimmed by the death of one of the children.

Mr. Murphy, the father, is a salesman for Stone, Ordean and Wells Co. of Duluth. The additions to the family brought happiness to the four other members of the Murphy household, Charlotte, 7, Donald Jr., 6, Eleanor, 3, and Thomas 21 months.

Dr. R. A. Beise also extended his congratulations to the family.

"This is the first time in my experience that I had the pleasure to officiate at the birth of triplets," Dr. Beise said.

The triplets were the first to be born at the St. Joseph's hospital, officials there reported.

Friends of the parents today offered name suggestions. One was of the mind that the children should be named Stone, Ordean and Wells after the firm the father is employed for.

The United Commercial Travellers were among those to send flowers to the parents.

Gay Wool Stockings Are Smart for Sports Wear

The question of what type hose to wear with the longer skirt is considered an important one, and the usual feeling is that the long lines should not be broken by a sharp contrast in hosiery, says a fashion writer in the Kansas City Star. Smart shops report interest in novelty silk and wool and silk and lisle hose for winter, these being especially well liked to complete a woolen costume, even one consisting of a light weight woolen frock.

For severe winter the gay wool sock is staunchly advocated as an appropriate accessory to the sports costume.

Those planning a wardrobe for southern wear manifest interest in complexion tints, bordering of course on suntan tones since it is reasonably certain that the sun cult will continue. Rumors of a tendency to economize in stockings now that long skirts make them a less conspicuous feature detail of the costume, are rife. The demand continues, however, for sheer silks or for the aforesaid novelties which, by no means, represent a saving in the initial cost at least.

From Paris also comes the report that higher instep effects are conspicuous among the newer footwear offerings. Satin finished crepe is offered in a wide variety of lovely colors. Most showings include models made of contrasting kids, lizard being still in high favor.

The preference for related shoes and handbags continues. For southern wear fabrics are being cleverly introduced alone or with kid. Linen and crepe de chine, moire and brocade are among the best liked fabrics while stitching makes an unusual and often attractive decorative detail.

The formal town season finds the evening ensemble, with jacket of slightly longer coat, very much in the ascendency. Such costumes are lavishly trimmed with flustering fur and are fashioned of transparent velvet, panne, metal cloth or some of the heavier silks, such as faille or moire. There is a strong preference shown for the coarse fish net gown, this being especially well liked in black, a type of frock which, when boasting long sleeves, is termed the Sunday night frock.

Takes Much Water to Supply World's Cities

Have you any idea how much water the average city dweller uses daily? Take London, with its gigantic population. Here the authorities have to supply an area of 558 square miles, and give the 7,000,000 people the water they need. Would you have imagined that each of these demands no less than 36 gallons every day? Yes, that is only the average supply per head per day. In the dry, hot weather the amount required for each person becomes 40 gallons, or more than a barrel of water per day for each man, woman, and child. London is not the thirstiest town. Scotland consumes more water than England. In Glasgow and Edinburgh, for instance, the average consumption per head is not 36, but 37 gallons; and to Helensburgh, in Dumbartonshire, belongs the distinction of being the most thirsty town in the whole of the British isles. Here they take $1.7 gallons per head. One reason given for Scotland's large consumption is that the water supply is much better than in England.

In addition to these delegates a number of visitors are expected.

REPRESENTATIVES OF 3 RAILWAYS TO MEET SOON

GREAT NORTHERN, NORTHERN PACIFIC AND BURLINGTON IN CONFERENCE

TO DISCUSS I. C. C. DECISION TO SEVER BURLINGTON FROM NORTHERNS

New York, March 3.—(U.P.)—Representatives of the Great Northern, the Northern Pacific and the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy railroads are expected to meet this week to discuss the interstate commerce commission's decision to sever the Burlington from the Northern, in event that consolidation of the Northern into the Great Northern Pacific is consummated.

No date has been set and as no regular meetings of either of these roads is scheduled, the exact date of the meeting is unknown. The Northern is unwilling to part with the Burlington unless some arrangement for their entry into Chicago is made.

As the matter stands now the commission has set up Minneapolis and St. Paul as the eastern terminal of the Northern under its consolidation plan and the Burlington is cast in an entirely different system, linked with the Missouri-Kansas-Texas and a number of shorter roads.

Canyon Worthily Ranks as Marvel of Nature

To understand the immensity of the Grand canyon, it is necessary to know something of the Colorado river, which, incidentally, must be included among the great rivers of North America. It is formed in southern Utah by the confluence of the Green and the Grand rivers. It enters Arizona at the northwestern corner and flows southward to the Gulf of California. It drains an area of 300,000 square miles. Only at three points is it crossed by a railroad.

The Spaniards were the first white men to view the great wonder of nature. Spanish explorers first reported seeing it as early as 1539 and in 1776 a Spanish priest found a crossing that still bears his name. The first man to make anything like a complete survey of the river and the canyon through which it flows, was Maj. John Wesley Powell, a geologist and a school teacher, a one-armed veteran of the Civil war. With a crew of men and boats, he traversed the river from its source to its mouth in 1893.

The Grand canyon has long been a haven for geologists. It furnishes them with an ideal setting to study the earth's strata. And it is no less a haven for tourists.

OAK IS WALL ST. TO OLD RESIDENT

John Olson Engan Calls It That Because It's Best Street in Town, He Says

N. P. EMPLOYEE 41 YEARS

Lived in Same Home 32 Years; is Strong Booster for Welfare of Brainerd

Oak street is Wall street to John Olson Engan, 1115 Oak street, because, he says, it is the best street in town. And to substantiate his statement, he continues to say that he has lived at his home on Oak street for the past 32 years, has no desire to move elsewhere and is thoroughly contented with his lot.

Mr. Engan is 77 years old. He went by the name of G. A. Olson while employed at the Northern Pacific shops here as blacksmith for 41 years ago. That name was given him at the time he started the employ of the railway by a timekeeper who had to distinguish him from another man who went by the name of John Olson. The G. A. Olson stuck until his retirement in March six years ago.

Born in Norway which he says is a darned good place to be born in but not the place to live in as the good U. S. A. is, Mr. Engan came to North America 50 years ago. He lived in Canada for a while then moved to Michigan and came to Brainerd 47 years ago.

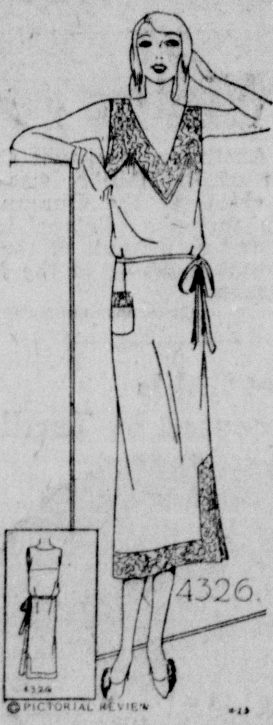

Thirty-six years ago a splinter of steel blinded his right eye while working. He did not complain even when last year he went blind in his other eye. He went to the N. P. B. A. hospital at St. Paul and there through an efficient operation and the aid of glasses he recovered the sight of his left eye.

"Yes, Brainerd is a mighty good place to live in," said Mr. Engan today as he surveyed the beautiful weather outside, "you know, winters are not as bad now as they were years ago."

The old resident said that when he first lived in southeast there were but six houses there. He has seen that section as well as entire Brainerd progress through the years and has rejoiced over it.

Mr. Engan is feeling well and very much happy to be alive. He has his own interests in life and particularly he likes the surrounding territory with its many lakes. He is a staunch supporter of the city and looks forward to the future brightly.

"MASTER of MONEY"

BY ROY VICKERS

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE.

WEALTHY Alan Brennaway is in love with Shirley Dane, beautiful, society girl, who is secretly engaged to Roger Kelton. Alan, learning that Roger is to marry Shirley, lends him $500,000. He takes as collateral shares in a Macedonia development believed worthless. After Shirley and Roger are married, Shirley, ignorant of the loan, is incensed when Roger tells her Alan is trying to force him to go to Macedonia. Receiving a tip from Cynaz, shady financier, Roger visions the reduction of his indebtedness to Alan. Jealous of Alan, Roger comes to the conclusion the loan was made because of Shirley. When Alan warns Shirley of her extravagance, she tells of her investment in Corto Bellas stock. Roger offers Alan $50,000 and Alan wonders where the money is to come from. Roger resents Alan's probing into his "personal" affairs. Next day, the stock drops considerably. That night Shirley learns that Roger has lost all her inheritance. Roger tells Shirley Alan made the loan to win her and get rid of him.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XXI.

She was Shirley and she loved her, loved the carriage of her head and hands, loved her quick glance and ready laughter, loved the scent and sound and sight of her. Could it not have been enough for him, prig and fool that he had been? Could he not have been content to take so much—

He was forgetting. She had already given her heart to Roger Kelton.

Alan's face was grim with thoughts of Kelton when he returned to the living-room with the supper-tray.

Shirley was still by the fire but she had taken off the big boots and was holding a silk-covered foot to the fire.

"This wood is all burning beautifully, Alan. It's been well dried—much better than the stuff we get. Can you lend me a pair of slippers?"

"Of a kind—yes."

He went to his bedroom and found them. They were grotesquely large for her and the sight of her feet in them amused them both. Presently she left the fire and began to flap about in the ungainly things, helping him to tidy the room and lay the table.

"We will have fruit for decoration instead of flowers," she said, and brought a heaped dish of apples to the feast.

"How glossy they are!"

While he waited for her to be seated, she lingered over the apples, picked one up, caressing its firm flesh. There was a smile on her lips that distressed him.

"Shirley, my dear, what is it?"

"Just thinking about apples Alan; that's all. Such a beautiful thing to lose Eden for. Perhaps it was worth it—I wonder?"

He was silent. He could not gauge her mood. He could only watch her, his own lassitude thrust aside and forgotten.

"They sat down. He waited deftly upon her, urging her to eat and drink. He had added a bottle of wine to the meal and would have kept her glass filled but she would only sip a little now and then.

"Are you plying me with wine so that my tongue may be loosened?" she demanded after his third attempt. She flashed him a smile. He returned it.

"Could you blame me?"

The meal progressed leisurely.

"How did you get fed in your mining camp, Alan?"

In the event it was his tongue that was loosened. With a skill he only marked, later, in memory, she drew him to speak of Mexico, Mexico as he had known it, wrestled with it, loved and hated and conquered it. He pictured it all for her, while the wind and rain shrieked against the cottage. He lived at again.

It was the beating of the wind and rain that recalled him.

"Look here!" he protested. "I've been monopolizing everything, including the conversation. You've eaten and drunk next to nothing."

"Are you plying me with wine so that my tongue may be loosened?"

make as good a job as I can of yours."

"Yes. Let me make you some coffee, Alan."

He repressed further protests. You could not drive Shirley; presently, perhaps, she would be led.

He got her the coffee and water and sugar she wanted and then sat down and watched her make the good-smelling stuff. You could not drive Shirley.

She was crouched down upon the rug, measuring, stirring and pouring. He looked down upon the slender column of her neck, the slope of her shoulders. For a moment, his hands, following his gaze, hovered, closing and unclosing. And in that moment she looked up at him.

"You paid a half million for me, have loved him so—and still love him, you know, in a way. He's had a panic today over a deal in Corto Bellas, and I frightened him into a confession of what you had done."

She sat down and stirred her coffee. Alan made a dry sound in his throat. She went evenly on.

"When you did it, you didn't, of course, know that I was engaged to Roger. You intended to tell me what you had done for me. I should then, of course, have married you. When you found we were engaged, you began to nag at Roger about Macedonia. He was to get the money back that way; if he failed, if he was destroyed, it became simple again—I should be free."

"Are you plying me with wine so that my tongue may be loosened?" she demanded after his third attempt. She flashed him a smile. He returned it.

"Could you blame me?"

The meal progressed leisurely.

"How did you get fed in your mining camp, Alan?"

In the event it was his tongue that was loosened. With a skill he only marked later, in memory, she drew him to speak of Mexico. Mexico as he had known it, wrestled with it, loved and hated and conquered it. He pictured it all for her, while the wind and rain shrieked against the cottage. He lived at again.

It was the beating of the wind and rain that recalled him.

"Look here!" he protested. "I've been monopolizing everything, including the conversation. You've eaten and drunk next to nothing."

"You've not been given a chance to speak a word and you will presently have to be driven back to Roger through a record gale and blizzard." He looked at the clock. "Shirley! I've been holding forth—between large mouthfuls—for nearly an hour. Why under heaven didn't you kick me?"

She rose with obvious reluctance and went back to the fire. There was a quality about that reluctance that impressed him.

"We ought to be pushing off," he said, uncertainly. "Roger knows you're here, of course?"

"Yes, Roger knows."

Her tone impressed him still further. Certainly Roger and she had quarreled.

"He'll be getting anxious though, on a night like this. I wish I had a car here. You'll have to let me Alan, not so long ago. Unless my value has decreased, there seems no reason why you should continue to lose money on the deal."

Alan's first sensation was that someone—Shirley?—had struck him violently on the chest, jostling him to his feet and then backwards, through the little room, to where such wind as could enter stirred the curtains.

He found himself, stammering, staring, leaning against the window-post as he had leaned before she came. But now there were no leaden clouds to see; only scudding darkness. And what abominable thing was she saying?

Her hands were still composedly busy with the coffee things. Only his overturned chair showed that he had not dreamed her accusation.

"Roger has told me everything," she was saying. "About his father and the desperate state he was in when you helped him. When you saw my name on his list of clients and lent—gave him that money so that less than half of that sum might be restored to me."

She poured out his coffee and, rising with it in her hand—he could note, even now, her absolute steadiness of nerve—she put it on the table; she righted his chair, struck a match and lit the only lamp, poured her own coffee. While she moved about, she talked.

"Roger, of course, never really intended to repay you. Roger in Macedonia! It's almost funny. And it's almost funny, too, that I could

Soviet Declares War on Religion

Churches and monasteries are being demolished in Russia in the Soviet's mad rush towards atheism. Bells, whose mellow tones have called the faithful to worship for centuries, are being crashed from their towers and melted so that the metal can be used for the manufacture of farm implements. The churches have been converted into granaries in the Soviet's new craze for "culture." Picture shows peasants of Petrovsky village bringing their wheat to a church which have been transformed into a granary.
